	PAGE
Amilation by Pseudomonas oxalaticus (OXI). 4. Metabolism of oxalate in cell-free extracts of organism grown on oxalate. By J. R. QUAYLE, D. B. KEECH and G. A. TAYLOR	225
of deoxygenation of human haemoglobin. By K. DALZIEL and J. R. P. O'BRIEN	236
ion spectra, magnetic moments and the binding of iron in some haemoproteins. By A. S. and R. J. P. WILLIAMS	246
Compounds of catalase and peroxidase. By A. S. BRILL and R. J. P. WILLIAMS	253
Detoxication. 85. The metabolism of m -dinitro[¹⁴ C]benzene in the rabbit. By D. V.	262
ly inert proteins of the central and peripheral nervous system, muscle and tendon. N. DAVISON	272 of carbohydrases in the digestive tract of the pig. By A. DAHLQVIST	282
amic quantities for the dissociation equilibria of biologically important compounds. First and second acid dissociations of arginine. By S. P. DATTA and A. K. GRZYBOWSKI	289
phenols. 3. Flavonoids in genotypes of Primula sinensis . By J. B. HARBORNE and L. SHERRATT	298
Molecular distribution of fatty acids in rat liver. The fatty acids of intracellular compartment. By G. S. GETZ and W. BARTLEY	307
tion of inorganic sulphate in studies on the enzymic and non-enzymic hydrolysis of hydrate and other sulphate esters. By K. S. DODGSON	312 glucose 6- O -sulphate as a substrate for glycosulphatase. By K. S. DODGSON and A. G.	319
phosphatase: observations on the activity of partially purified preparations towards the phosphate esters of certain monosaccharides and steroids. By K. S. DODGSON	324
Occurrence of unusual fatty acids in faecal lipids from human beings with normal and abnormal absorption. By A. T. JAMES, J. P. W. WEBB and T. D. KELLOCK	333 of the phosphoproteins of brain. 2. Partial purification of a phosphoprotein attached to ribosomal particles. By P. J. HEALD	340
of pituitary adrenocorticotrophin. 3. Identification of the oxidation-reduction centre. By L. DEDMAN, T. H. FARMER and C. J. O. R. MORRIS	348
of bile studies of 'bile salts'. 13. Bile acids of the leopard seal, Hydrurga leptonyx , and of the walrus of the genus Bitis . By G. A. D. HASLEWOOD	352
of chlorophyll by chlorophyllase. By M. HOLDEN	359
of pyridoxal phosphate-oxidase and pyridoxal phosphate-phosphatase activities in Escherichia coli . By J. M. TURNER and F. C. HAPPOLD	364
of the conformation characteristics of deoxyribonucleic acid from human tissues. By P. A. BIANCHI and V. SHOOTER	372 of polycyclic compounds. 18. The secretion of metabolites of naphthalene, 1:2-dihydro-1-naphthalene and 1:2-epoxy-1:2:3:4-tetrahydronaphthalene in rat bile. By E. BOYLAND, G. S. SIMS and P. SIMS	376
of ascorbic acid measurements on ascorbic acid and their use for the estimation of ascorbic acid and dehydroascorbic acid in plant tissues. By E. J. HEWITT and G. J. DICKES	384
of the effect of anterior-pituitary growth hormone on oxidative phosphorylation in rat mitochondria. By A. H. MELHUISE and A. L. GREENBAUM	392
of sialic acid on the occurrence of sialic acid in human cartilage. By A. J. ANDERSON	399 of the properties and properties of cystine esterase. By K. C. HOOPER	409
of the biochemistry of micro-organisms. 108. Metabolites of Alternaria tenuis Auct.: the synthesis of tenuazonic acid. By C. E. STICKINGS and R. J. TOWNSEND	412

- Tissue-specific and species-specific esterases. By J. PAUL and P. FOTRELL
- Anti-inflammatory drugs and intermediary metabolism. By V. MOSES and M. J. H. SMITH
- Biosynthesis of polynucleotides. 4. The utilization of exogenous precursors by Candida utilis.
G. R. BARKER, R. C. HIGNETT, M. JACKSON and M. J. WADSWORTH
- Further observations on the paraffins and primary alcohols of plant waxes. By J. D. WALLACE, D. S. GOWERS, A. C. CHIBNALL and S. H. PIPER
- The assay of human plasminogen with casein as substrate. By M. DERECHIN

Proceedings of The Biochemical Society

- Rate of interaction of cytochemical substrates with enzymes present in fixed tissue. By O'SULLIVAN
- Possible quantitative methods for studies of enzymes in single cells. By A. J. HALE
- Properties of tetrazolium salts and alternative electron acceptors as factors in dehydrogenase histochemistry. By A. G. E. PEARSE
- Correlations between results of biochemical methods and cytochemical staining methods for localizing enzymes in cells. By S. J. HOLT
- The basis for the histochemical detection of intracellular glycogen. By W. J. C. WILKINSON and J. H. KUGLER
- The histochemical demonstration of steroid 3β -ol dehydrogenase and diphosphopyridine nucleotide diaphorase in the adrenal cortex. By I. M. P. DAWSON, J. PRYSE-DAVIES and I. M. S. SMITH
- Histochemistry and significance of the chromatoid body in spermatogenesis of the grasshopper Matricaria matricaria. By B. N. SUD
- The influence of sex hormones on melanin pigmentation of the skin. By R. S. SNELL
- Histochemical changes in mouse skeletal muscle associated with Trichinella spiralis infection.
E. B. BECKETT
- The functional differentiation of β cells of chick embryonic pancreas. By T. A. I. GRILLO
- The calcification mechanism as exemplified by a histochemical study of avian medullary bone.
By D. A. STRINGER and T. G. TAYLOR
- Sulphate metabolism in epithelia. By D. K. WATKINS and B. SPENCER
- Differences in the utilization of labelled precursors for the synthesis of deoxyribonucleic acid in cell nuclei and psittacosis virus. By S. R. PELC and T. T. CROCKER
- Histochemical and electron microscopical observations on the acroblast of Helix aspersa.
S. BRADBURY, J. T. Y. CHOU and G. A. MEEK
- The uptake of [3 H]leucine into human lymphocytes in vitro. By E. H. COOPER
- Some aspects of amino acid metabolism in the housefly, Musca domestica. By G. M. PRICE
- Incorporation of [14 C]acetate into acetylcholine of the adult housefly in vivo under conditions of rest, activity and insecticidal action. By F. P. W. WINTERINGHAM and A. HARRISON
- Properties of some derivatives of 4-methylumbelliferone. By D. H. LEABACK
- The effect of 2-dimethylaminoethanol on the metabolism of cerebral phospholipids. By G. M. ANSELL and S. SPANNER
- The fractionation of polyanions by long-chain aliphatic ammonium salts. By J. E. SCOTT
